

My Love Letter to Mac 1/24/14

Remember when the trash icon was at the bottom right below
Remember saving stuff to a floppy when working "on the go"?

Remember how you could tweak which music played when turning your Mac on?

Remember when "screen capture" & MacPaint gave you hours of clean fun?

Remember how relieved you'd be to see Mac's "smiling face"?

Remember how anxious you got if/when you saw "the bomb" icon in its place?

Remember hearing about Macworld and quickly running to the store?

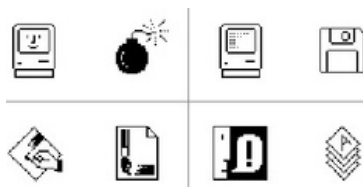

Remember happily finding "The Macintosh Bible" filled with tips & lore?

Remember Mac's pretty colors, artistry personified?

Remember its transparent case so you could actually peek inside?

Remember the "puck mouse" and first time you saw a port for USB?

Remember when you learned how to "rip" a movie and CD?

Remember learning iWork and iLife to enhance your own workflow?
Remember switching to Leopard and sitting back to watch movies on Front Row?

Remember seeing the Mac App Store for the very first time?
Remember gleefully downloading all those Apps that didn't cost a dime?

Remember when Spaces and Automator seemed like AI just for you?
Remember when Time Machine seemed much too good to be true?

Remember the first time you used iChat & Air Drop to share files?
Remember your first FaceTime visit with someone across the miles?

Remember how excited you were when Steve Jobs said "One more thing?"

Remember later waiting for Mavericks, thinking its name had a nice ring?

If you recall any or all of these details, or lived them just like me
